SOLUTION What are the similarities and differences

as such all linear equations will be functions because there can only be 1 and only 1 value of y for each value of x. there is, i believe, one major exception. the equation of $x = c$ is a linear equation because it is an equation of a straight line.

Are there similarities between an equation and an inequality

Inequalities and equations are both different because equations have an equal sign, the answer is not an interval, and the answer is a specific answer. Not a range. While inequalities don't have an equal sign, its answer is an interval, and it's answer is in a range.

What Is the Difference Between a Quadratic and a Linear

Linear graphs are always shaped like straight lines, which can have either positive or negative slopes. Linear graphs always follow the equation $y = mx + b$, where "m" is the slope of the graph and "b" is the y-intercept, or the number where the line crosses the y-axis.
